There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. ## SAFE VS. BREECHES

In these early days of autumn we are suffering from a series of epidemics, namely, the influenza and burly. Not that the two securities are analogous, or directly connected, or that they work in exactly the same manner. The influenza gathers us all in, the young and the old, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the just and the unjust, taking us in its embrace any time, anywhere, while the burglarious affection only attempts to purloin our breeches in the dead, still hours of the night time, while we are sleeping the sleep of the innocent and the just. As most of the male population of this GREAT city—and when speaking referential to breeches no other sex is included—have but one pair, and should that be lost, strayed or stolen, we would be subject to the influenza, as well as many other sorts of embarrassments too numerous to mention. That is what makes both coming together so much worse than it would be. But, haven't you noticed it—troubles never come singularly?

Now, in all seriousness, why should we carry valuables around in our pants pockets? The practice makes us but a walking temptation to every common foot-pat and night prowler who happens to be in the community. Most business men and many others have good substantial iron safes in which to store and keep their valuables. If not, the bank offers all the protection needed in this respect. We repeat that those who carry valuables around upon their person make of themselves an alluring temptation to every thief and holdup man that comes along, while it requires an expert to blow a safe. And for every safe-blower there is a hundred common foot-pats and robbers holding up people on the streets whom they suspect of carrying valuables.

So, therefore, if you carry valuables on your person, your risks are increased in exactly that proportion. Any common foot-pat can way-lay a person on the street or in passing an alley, or other dark place, or with a crooked stick drag your valuables from your room at night, while the safe-blower, comparatively few in number, has a far more difficult task, and also the likelihood of being captured. Besides, the holdup man always gets the drop on you and often commits murder if you resist, or attempt to resist. Though it is generally the case the robber of this sort is successful in taking what you have, and without molestation passes on to hunt his next victim. The fact is, that for every dollar taken by the safe-blower, a hundred are taken by the foot-pat.

MORAL: Keep your money and valuables in a good safe—it is safer than your breeches pockets.

DIG IN

The schools, churches, picture shows, and other places of public meeting, have been sidetracked here for the present, in the hope that the epidemic of influenza sweeping over the entire country, may pass our community without stopping to take too many of us aboard for a ride in the "sneeze wagon."

The mayor and the members of the school board decided upon this precaution and made the order to take effect, beginning Wednesday, of this week, and the arrangement is to continue until the epidemic has spent itself.

This is also a state order, as issued by Governor Gardner. All schools, churches, and other places of public gathering throughout the state have closed, and will so remain until further notice.

One of the provisions of the order is, that the children be kept off the streets, with instructions to the officers to enforce the measure to the fullest extent. It would be folly to stop the children from school and permit them to gad about the streets and gather at the postoffice and other places, as some seem inclined to do.

While there are a considerable number to cases of influenza here, the epidemic has not yet become so serious as at other places, and doubtless will not, if the precautions named are properly observed.

All good citizens will obey the law; others should be made to obey it.

WOMEN OF MISSOURI

The Government is appealing to you—to help maintain our Christmas and not hinder our business of fighting the war.

Women do the greater part of Christmas buying—hence to whom the Government is sending this appeal.

BUY EARLY—before November 15th if possible.

Labor is scarce and must not be over-worked. Merchants have been pledged to engage no extra help or increase their hours of labor.

Buying in October and November will help this labor problem.

BUY USEFUL GIFTS—Let your purchase be a useful thing to start with—then make sure your friend can or will use it when it is received.

Eliminate all purchases of useless and unnecessary things this year. Uncle Sam needs his materials for the sinews of war. This does not mean toys for the little tots.

Ship as little as possible, either by express or mail. Ship only the highest weight articles possible and SHIP EARLY—nothing after December 5th.

The Government will accept no gifts for foreign delivery after November 15th.

The Government needs the railroads for war work, and hopes to thus avoid congestion.

And in your own community, carry your own bundles and deliver your own packages.

By obeying these instructions you will help solve one of the Government's most serious problems of the day and still maintain our Holiday cheer.

LIBERTY DAY TO HAVE FAR-REACHING APPEAL AS HARVEST FESTIVAL

Boards of Education Are Co-Operating With Liberty Loan Organization for Oct. 12.

Liberty Day in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign will be Saturday, Oct. 12. In former years Liberty Day was observed on the second Friday of the campaign.

L. B. Franklin, Director of War Loans, in a communication to the head of the Liberty Loan Organization publicity department, in announcing the change, which has been suggested by the United States Bureau of Education, speaks of the appropriateness of the day, the anniversary of the discovery of America, for the purpose.

The Treasury Department, in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Education, will request every school district in the United States—city, town and countryside—to arrange for the celebration of the discovery of America with an appropriate harvest home festival.

"There is," says Mr. Franklin, "a logical unity between both of these ideas and the Liberty Loan. When the people of a community recount the fruits of their summer's labor they will naturally ask themselves what share of them they ought to invest in Liberty Bonds. When they come to realize what the discovery of America has meant to them personally, what it has meant for the cause of freedom and democracy, what it will mean for the salvation of the world in the present world tragedy, when they begin to feel all this they must of necessity say this is worth investing in, worth fighting for, worth making any sacrifice for."

In Every Community. "To create this state of mind is the purpose of celebrating the discovery of America. It is our hope that the nation-wide celebration will stir such enthusiasm over America's mission in the world as to enable each community to reach at least its quota by that day. Let every local community make this its goal and on Liberty Day announce the achievement and rejoice over it."

"The Bureau of Education, at the request of the Treasury Department, is preparing suggestions for a harvest home festival celebration and has the facilities for mailing them to almost every one of the 300,000 schools in the United States."

"The harvest home festival is our earliest form of American celebration, before cities were built, and it would be a distinct gain to carry the idea over into city life. The characteristic harvest of the city is not fruit or grain, but the products of social life, like commerce, arts, music, architecture. City and country communities will of course celebrate the day each after its own fashion, but the harvest home idea applies equally to both. Whatever a community's particular type of product may be, on Liberty Day its aim should be to reap a harvest of dollars for democracy. On this day we meet not as city or country people, but as citizens, all united for the single purpose of serving the nation by devoting a part of our products to its needs."

CHURCHES BUYING BONDS

Government Securities Are Found to Be Ideal for Endowment Funds.

Calling attention to the opening of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign Sept. 28, The Pilot, a monthly paper published by the St. Louis Federation of Evangelical Brotherhoods, fires its first gun in the campaign.

"Awakened patriotism," it says editorially, "has made the American people a saving people, a bond-buying people. The effect of the Liberty Loans on the national character, on our national life, on the individual citizen and our home life is immeasurable—of incalculable benefit."

The Pilot advocates the giving of Liberty Bonds to church work to be come a reserve fund and a memorial to the giver. It says that the synod and the Orphans' Home of the Evangelical Church have benefited by many donations along this line.

"Who will be the next with the Fourth?" is the question The Pilot asks Evangelical members and friends. Many churches and church institutions are awakening to the opportunity of financing themselves and creating reserve funds by stimulating the people to buy and give Liberty Bonds. Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., an institution of the Presbyterian Church, is raising a permanent endowment fund of $500,000, much of the amount being given in Liberty Bonds. In all of the literature sent forth by the campaign office of Westminster a call for the gift of bonds is set forth.
